Beschreibung

The Ruhr-Universität Bochum is one of the leading research universities. The university draws its strengths from both the diversity and the proximity of scientific and engineering disciplines on a single, coherent campus. This highly dynamic setting enables students and researchers to work across traditional boundaries of academic subjects and faculties.

The Chair of International Politics at RUB as part of the new Graduate School on Political Cohesion (GSPC) invites applications for a position of a Research Associate and Ph.D Student (m/f/d) for 3 years starting 1 April 2020. This is a part-time position (23,89 h/w of 13 TV-L) at the Chair of International Politics with the possibility to pursue a doctoral degree. The GSPC is funded by MERCUR Foundation for three years.

The new Graduate School on Political Cohesion (GSPC) combines the expertise of Ruhr University Bochum and TU Dortmund University in political science (international relations) and philosophy and aims at interdisciplinary research. Doctoral students (m/f/d) will research on the dimensions of political cohesion as preconditions as well as results of international cooperation. Research will focus on political cohesiveness regarding the role of societies, governments and non-state actors. The GSPC is especially interested in the dimensions of justice, identity, participation, and security.
